

K-LOVE radio is received at both my current residence and my former residence (Tucson, Arizona) by FM translator. K-LOVE radio serves my family and me as our best source of family friendly Christian radio. K-LOVE radio is listener supported and I have supported them for the last three years. I believe they provide a great service to our local community. They provide consistent support and have helped me personally as a tool for discussing Christian principles with friends. The broadcasting contains not only music but also items of local and national interest.

I don't think I realized how important K-LOVE was to our lives until we lost the station for a period of time after a fire on MT. Lemon in Tucson damaged the translator. Even though Tucson is a fair sized community, no other local station's programming was a decent substitute for the content on K-LOVE. Our church even discussed the loss during one service. Our new community (Camden, Arkansas) is a much smaller market, but I was thrilled to find K-Love was still available by translator once again.

I believe it would be a great loss to the local community if K-LOVE radio's translator service were displaced by a LPFM broadcaster providing other programming. It is very difficult to find a radio station that equals K-LOVE's content. Our small community probably doesn't have the financial resources to support a specialized radio station of our own, but K-LOVE offers us the opportunity to pool resources and using translators to cover a larger area. We would lose that capability if the translator frequencies were not available.

K-LOVE provides a service that is in the public's best interest. The programming is safe for the whole family and does not broadcast offensive content. The station itself is publicly funded and does not broadcast commercials. Funding is received from individuals like myself who feel strongly enough that their service is needed that we are willing to pay to keep it operating. I don't just support K-LOVE because it is available in my local area, but because it is available nationally in other small communities like mine.
